

Critical Acclaim For “IF I CAN’T DO IT”

By Walter Brock

“This portrait of a cantankerous activist-come lately offers a vision not often seen on TV. A film like ‘If I Can't Do It’ can help us begin to understand a new paradigm for our own futures. To not let it do so would be the real tragedy.”

Mary Johnson
The New York Times

“... [this] film about a disabilities-rights activist is an inspiration. ... It is a must see.”
San Diego Union-Tribune

“It's the brutally honest and sometimes shocking story of Campbell's struggle to live life on his own terms ... Brock ... does a masterful job of introducing the viewer to Campbell...”

Tom Dorsey
Courier-Journal (Louisville, KY)

“This is the best disability related film I have ever seen.”

Greg Smith
On a Roll: Talk Radio on Life & Disability

“Wrenching and compelling, this is an honest portrayal of one man's anger, hopes and frustrations at trying to make it as a disabled man in a fiercely non-disabled society.”
